

TAFT SPEECH CREATES SENSATION IN OHIO AND WASHINGTON ALSO

Boss Cox's Machine at Cincinnati is Given Terrific Blow by Sec- retary of War

SECRETARY WILL NOT SUPPORT THE TICKET

Many Think President Roosevelt Inspired Judge Taft— Watson Thinks It Queer—Herrick and Dick Mum—Ports- mouth Pastor Takes Strong Stand in His Pulpit for Election of John M. Pattison for Governor.

Washington, Oct. 23.—The remarkable speech of Secretary of War Taft at Akron, Saturday night, in which he so severely denounced the Republican organization of Cincinnati and Hamilton county, has created a great sensation here. Astute politicians are puzzled over the castigation of George B. Cox. Many think they see in the speech the hand of President Roosevelt. Although it has been the policy of the President to keep the national administration out of state politics, especially where the Republican forces are divided among themselves, there are those who believe that Taft's utterances were inspired by Mr. Roosevelt. Taft is known to be an "honest patriot," and he did "rebuken" in emphatic fashion the Cox regime in Cincinnati. So strongly does the secretary feel upon this subject that notwithstanding his brother, Chas. P. Taft, is the editor and proprietor of a paper in Cincinnati, looked upon by the Republican organization as being friendly to it, he announced that he would not vote for the local Republican ticket in his home town this fall.

PRESIDENT TELLS WHY CABINET MEMBERS ARE NOT ACTIVE IN PRESENT OHIO CAMPAIGN

The Republican managers planned to have nearly all of the President's cabinet come to Ohio and speak during the present campaign, but President Roosevelt set his foot down and plans were changed. Secretary Taft is the only cabinet officer to speak and he gave one speech only, that at Akron, Saturday night. In this speech he created a sensation in Republican circles by admitting the great power of George B. Cox, but endeavored to show that the defeat of Herrick would not affect the power of the mighty boss. The people, however, will not agree with Mr. Taft on this point.

The following extract from President Roosevelt's Atlanta, Ga., speech of last Friday will show why his cabinet members are not taking an active part in the Ohio campaign:

"We should treat with a peculiarly contemptuous abhorrence the man who . . . debauches either our business life or our political life. There are men who use the phrase 'practical politics' as merely a euphemism for dirty politics, and it is such men who have brought the word 'politician' into discredit. There are other men who use the noxious phrase 'business is business,' as an excuse and justification for every kind of mean and crooked work; and these men make honest Americans hang their heads because of some of the things they do.

"It is the duty of every honest patriot to rebuke in emphatic fashion the politician who does not understand that the only kind of 'practical politics' which a nation can with safety tolerate is that kind which we know as clean politics."

if he were able to be at the polls. This declaration is believed by many of his party friends to have been ill-advised in view of the capital which the opposition will make of it throughout the state. That one sentence will doubtless be emblazoned at every crossroads in Ohio.

"It is a little singular," said D. K. Watson of Ohio today, "for one of our great party leaders to say that he would cut his own county and city ticket and vote for the Democratic candidates. Will he not be misunderstood and quoted all over the country to the great disadvantage of the Republican party?"

It is not believed here that the secretary had his own political ambition in mind when he denounced Cox in this public manner. If he is to be a candidate for President in 1908 it would indeed be a poor way, it is argued, to go about securing the support of his own city and county. The obvious inference then is that Taft spoke his own convictions in this matter from a sense of duty as he saw it and regardless of the effect that it might have on his own career, or that of Governor Herrick.

MACHINE IS ALARMED

Cincinnati, Oct. 23.—Impartial political observers today say that disruption stares Boss Cox's political machine in the face and the members of it are greatly alarmed. The speech of Secretary Taft came like the explosion of a bomb. Cox is silent. Today the machine's officials gathered to discuss the denunciation of Taft. They realize the enormity of the last blow given Cox and his system and they fear the result. Prominent Republicans who have been held by their love of party to the city administration, op-only express themselves. They say Taft's words will have greater effect than had they come from the President himself, Taft being a Cincinnati and familiar with every detail of politics here.

HERRICK AND DICK SILENT.
Cleveland, O., Oct. 23.—Gov. Herrick and Senator Dick, departing this morning for Dayton, refused to discuss or comment on Secretary Taft's Akron speech.

MINISTER'S FIRM STAND.
Portsmouth, O., Oct. 23.—Rev. G. P. Taubman, pastor of the Christian church, created a sensation last night by advocating the expulsion of members of the church who support the Republican ticket this fall. Addressing the church elders, he said "The lines on the gubernatorial candidates in Ohio this fall are so finely drawn and so certain that if you find any one in this congregation who at the November election has supported the liquor element of Ohio by endorsing the party it is backing, you should call those before your official board and make them show reasons why they should not be expelled from membership in this church. Your vote is a moral factor for which you must answer to God."

PORTS SENDS NOTE TO BARON VON CALICE MAKING A PROTEST.

Turkish Government Reiterates What It Calls Insupportable Objections to Scheme.

Vienna, Oct. 23.—It is reported here that the powers intend to present a joint ultimatum to the Turkish government on account of its resistance to their financial control of Macedonia, and that if the ultimatum should be disregarded the powers will make a naval demonstration.

Constantinople, Oct. 23.—The porte has addressed a note to Baron Von Calice, Austro-Hungarian ambassador, protesting against the presence at Uskub of the financial commissioners of the powers and demanding the cessation of interference by the powers in the internal affairs of Turkey. Replying to a collective note presented by the six embassies at Constantinople Sept. 26, which said that the decision of the powers to assume international control of the finances of Macedonia was unalterable, the Turkish government reiterated what it regarded as insupportable objections to the scheme. Another collective note was presented Oct. 7, when the financial delegates of the powers proceeded to Uskub.

TWO SHOT, TWO STABBED IN MUTINY

New York, Oct. 23.—Following a mutiny of the crew on board the schooner Ida B. Gibson near Norfolk and on her arrival here, two men were shot today, two stabbed, one is missing and probably murdered and the schooner is sinking in East river. Capt. F. H. Bradley has deep knife wounds in his face, and Frank H. Medley, mate, cannot be found. The mutiny started after the vessel ran aground outside Norfolk last week. When the vessel arrived here the crew except the mate and cook were discharged. Bradley, Correy and Medley this morning were set upon by a dozen members of the crew. Policeman McMahon and Detective Hadlich were shot and badly hurt as a result of the fight.

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 23.—President Roosevelt reached here at 11 a. m. and made a short speech from his car.

TOKYO HONORS ADMIRAL TOGO

RECEIVED BY THE EMPEROR

Victor of the Battle of the Sea of Japan is Warmly Praised for the Service Rendered by His Officers, Men and Self—Features of the Warrior's Reception.

Tokyo, Oct. 23.—The public entry into Tokyo of Admiral Togo, who came to report to the emperor the return of his fleet from the war, was a notable event. When the distinguished naval officer arrived at the Shimbashi station he was met by ministers of state, generals, admirals, members of the diplomatic corps and hundreds of officials and private citizens, who extended him a warm welcome to the capital. He was accompanied by his staff and Admirals

ADMIRAL TOGO.

Katakakaa, Kamimura and Dewa, together with their staffs. The party entered five imperial carriages placed at their disposal and, led by his majesty's aide, Admiral Inouye, drove directly to the palace, where they were received in audience by the emperor. Admiral Togo's carriage, escorted by a bodyguard of troopers, passed through a triumphal arch in front of the railway station. The streets were lined with an admiring crowd, who shouted hearty banzais as the party passed along. Admiral Togo, after his audience with the emperor, returned to his ship. In receiving Admiral Togo the emperor warmly praised the service rendered by him, his officers and men. The day was a beautiful one and all Tokyo was out irrespective of age to welcome the victor of the battle of the Sea of Japan.

BELGIUM AND CONGO

Autumn Session of Parliament Promises to be Eventful—May Fortify Antwerp.

Brussels, Oct. 23.—The autumn session of parliament promises to be an eventful one. The question of fortifying Antwerp is the first important matter to be considered. The plan of the government for a new advanced line of fortifications will entail an expenditure of $21,600,000, and it is proposed to enlarge the Antwerp docks to about twice their present size. The question of the definite status of the Congo independent state also will be considered. The impression prevails in diplomatic circles that the governments of Great Britain and Germany wish to terminate the reign of King Leopold as absolute sovereign of the Congo independent state and to oblige Belgium to definitely annex the state. It is probable that if asked to take final action both houses of parliament will give substantial majorities to the annexation of the Congo as an integral part of the kingdom of Belgium.

SHOPLIFTERS

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 23.—Four men and four women, who, the local police believe, constitute two gangs of professional shoplifters, who through their recent operations have stolen thousands of dollars' worth of valuable furs and silks in this and other cities in Indiana, were arrested by detectives from the local police department and in default of $2,000 were locked up at the police station charged with larceny.

"NOT GUILTY"

Plea Filed by Packers in Federal Court at Chicago

NO JURISDICTION IS ALLEGED

DEFENDANTS ASK JUDGE TO DISMISS CASES

Commissioner Garfield's "White Wash" Report is Also Filed With Plea Monday.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—"Not guilty" and "no jurisdiction" are the pleas of the packers filed this morning in the federal court. In a special plea for all the indicted members of the alleged beef trust, the claim is made by the attorneys for the packers that the United States has no jurisdiction and that there is no law providing for the conviction and punishment for alleged violation of the interstate commerce act. In addition, a general and special plea in behalf of the indicted men collectively denies their guilt as to all the counts sustained by Judge Humphrey and asks that they be dismissed from custody.

The defendants aver that because the government proceeded against them in equity in May, 1902, and procured a restraining order of the Circuit court under the anti-trust law of 1890, the United States attorney general and his assistant are thought now to be debarred from prosecuting them criminally for alleged violations of the same law. The plea alleging other grounds for dismissal of the indictments takes the investigation of the department of commerce and labor at the order of Congress as an act superseding any prior law. The defendants recite that such an investigation was made and a report of the commissioner was that no unlawful combination existed and no acts in conspiracy or illegal restraint of trade had been committed. Commissioner Garfield's report is filed with the plea.

EXPRESS ROBBER MAKES DENIAL

SAYS HE DIDN'T TAKE ANY MORE THAN EVEN HUNDRED THOUSAND.

Edward George Cunliffe Denounces Missett, Who Told Detectives of His Location.

Pittsburg, Oct. 23.—Edward George Cunliffe, the express robber, denies that he took the odd $1,000 with which he is charged in addition to the $100,000 package, and states that his object in going to Bridgeport, Conn., was to obtain employment on one of the oyster boats of the Bridgeport fleet, a plan that was frustrated by the fact that the boats were not working on account of some labor trouble. He shipped the $80,000 in a suit case to Bristol, he said, in care of the express company, figuring on that as the most unlikely place the detectives would search, and when questioned as to the $11,000 still missing, evaded reply by railing against the fates which led to the discovery of the $80,000. Cunliffe denounces James Missett of Bridgeport, who informed the Pinkertons of his whereabouts, as a "knack" and said he made preparations to skip immediately after meeting Missett but was detained by an attack of cramps. He vigorously denied offering Detective Arnold $40,000, "or even 40 cents," as he put it.

DOZEN FOUND WATERY GRAVES

Pleasure Parties at Divers Points Meet With Disaster.

SIX DROWN IN DELAWARE BAY

Launch Overturned by a Barge and Only Three Rescued of a Party of Nine—Five Lives Lost in an Accident on the Hudson and Several Drown in the Mississippi.

Beverly, N. J., Oct. 23.—Six men were drowned in the Delaware river as the result of a collision off this place between a launch and a barge. Three other persons were rescued by the crew of the tugboat Bristol, which was towing the barge when the accident happened. Those rescued are Captain John Winch, the owner of the launch; W. R. Russell and J. Rutherford. The dead: Wm. Winch, John Ellis, John Stevenson, Samuel Heron, Norman Delaney and James Yonkers. The launch was hired by the men, most of whom lived in the northeastern part of Philadelphia. The elder Winch took his son along to assist him in running the boat. Opposite Crofton the launch met the tug Bristol, in command of Captain Mott, which was towing a barge to Borden-town. Whether Captain Winch saw the barge is not known; nevertheless, he attempted to cross the tug's stern. Captain Mott hailed him and tried to prevent him from doing so. Captain Winch was standing at the wheel of the launch as he went around the stern of the tug. The hawser of the tug struck him and knocked him overboard. Before the captain's son or any other member of the party could take the wheel to steer the launch clear of the barge the latter struck the frail boat amidship, capsizing it. The launch rolled under the barge and its occupants went with it. Captain Mott put the tug about and went to the rescue. He and his crew threw ropes and life preservers to the struggling men in the water, but they were only able to save three of them.

Catboat Run Down.

Yonkers, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Five persons, the body of one having been recovered, are believed to have been drowned by the running down of a catboat by a tug off South Yonkers. Members of the South Hudson Boat club heard cries for help out on the river and in the heavy mist that prevailed were able to make out the outlines of a capsized sailboat and of a tug that was running rapidly down the river. The cries ceased before the yachtmen, who had put out to the rescue in a rowboat, reached the catboat, which they found deserted and with her side stove in. In a coat aboard the boat they found a list of names which proved to be those of a party who had gone sailing in the boat. They were Edward Nelson, the owner of the boat; his son Edward, Benjamin Benson, P. Simpson and Carl Thompson, all of South Yonkers. The body of Benson was found.

Launch Exploded.

St. Louis, April 23.—A gasoline launch containing four persons, making its first trip on the Mississippi river, exploded near Ivory station, 14 miles below the city, and two of the passengers are believed to have been drowned, the other two being probably fatally burned. Missing: Fred Phee; unknown man. Injured: Edward Duffy, Sr.; Edward Duffy, Jr.; Edward Duffy, Sr. and Fred Phee had constructed the launch, and were making a trial trip with the new craft. Duffy's son and a friend of Phee's went along. After plying through the water for three hours the launch suddenly exploded and sank.

CAR HIT WAGON

Two People Killed and Eight Injured at a Crossing at Southport, Indiana.

Indianapolis, Oct. 23.—Two children were killed and eight other persons injured, three fatally, in a crossing accident two miles north of Southport, when car No. 9 on the Indianapolis, Columbus and Southern traction line struck a wagon loaded with a merry party returning from the country, where they had been celebrating. The dead: Jennie Russell, 10; Harvey James, 12. Fatally injured: Fred Hyde, driver; Mrs. Sadie Russell, Mrs. Lydia Morrison. According to state-ments made by members of the traction car, the driver must have lost his way and in his confusion drove the wagon onto the tracks in front of the car.

Captain Wm. Simms, stockdealer, of Huntington, W. Va., expired while playing poker with a party of friends. A hot pot was on and when Simms drew a royal flush he gasped and fell back dead.

An Italian was pulled up by two high mawmen near Haverhill, Pa., and shot at 1000 yds. He was represented as an Italian from Philadelphia and was shot dead.

JERRY SIMPSON

Died Monday Morning After a Long Illness At Wichita, Kas.

FORMERLY SAILOR ON LAKES

AFTERWARDS BECOMING LEADER IN FARMERS' ALLIANCE

Then a Populist and Was Three Times Sent to Congress from State of Kansas.

Wichita, Kansas, Oct. 23.—Ex-Congressman Jerry Simpson died today after a long illness.

Jerry Simpson, three times elected congressman from Kansas and twice defeated for the office, was born in New Brunswick in 1842, was taken while a child to Oneida county, New York, and became a sailor on the great lakes.

Later he came west and became a member and then a leader of the Farmers' Alliance and by easy evolution a populist. Simpson was the object of more vitriolic editorials than come to the share of any half dozen average congressmen. He was derided almost without cessation during his public career and the nickname "the scoundrel" stuck to him long after he had retired from office.

IN TEN MINUTES

Mrs. Abshire Got Two Divorces—Odd Case in Indiana Before the Court at Goshen.

Goshen, Ind., Oct. 23.—When Mrs. Mary Abshire's petition for divorce from Joshua C. Abshire was being heard here it developed that Mrs. Abshire's decree of separation from W. J. Immel eight years ago was never entered on the court records, and that, in fact, as she had no divorce from her first husband, she was illegally living with her second husband, from whom she was seeking divorce. The court, to clear matters, made a order for the decree of eight years ago, to be regularly entered on record now. Mrs. Abshire was then given a separation from her husband, thus getting two divorces in 10 minutes.

BRITISH CAPTIVES

On Board Scoutship Pathfinder Which Has Arrived at Tangier—Men Well Treated.

Tangier, Oct. 23.—The scoutship Pathfinder has arrived here with Captain Crowther and Lieutenant Batton, the British officers who were captured by Moroccan tribesmen, on board. The liberation of the officers was effected through the good offices of the shereef of Wazzan, and in exchange for the brigand Valiente, a brother of whom headed Anjera tribesmen who made the capture. In an interview the shereef said that there was no difficulty in effecting the exchange of prisoners and that no ransom was asked or other conditions imposed. The officers said they were well treated by their captors.

PRESIDENT

Reaches Mobile, Ala., Monday Afternoon—He is Now on His Way From Florida.

St. Augustine, Fla., Oct. 23.—President Roosevelt started for his tour of Alabama. He is not scheduled to make a stop of any length until he reaches Mobile this afternoon. His day in St. Augustine was quiet. He attended services in Presbyterian Memorial church at 11 o'clock. The pastor, Rev. James Coffin Stout preached from the text, "Worthy the lamb that was slain." He made no reference to the president in his sermon. The church was crowded. At the conclusion of the services the president was taken for a short drive about the city. After luncheon the president, accompanied by Secretary Loeb, Surgeon General Rivers, John McHenry and John Greenway, the last two of whom have been his guests on the trip south, drove to Fort Marion, where they boarded a launch and went to Anastasia, an island. Here the party dined before the club and had a bath in the afternoon.

Raffles, The Amateur Cracksman

By E. W. HORNING

He answered me without a word. Something white was fluttering past once more, and Raffles, stepping forth, made the promenaders stare.

I do not ask to set foot aboard a finer steamship than the Thian of the Norddeutscher Lloyd, to meet a kinder gentleman than her then commander or better fellows than his officers. This much at least let me have the grace to admit—I hated the voyage. It was no fault of anybody connected with the ship; it was no fault of the weather, which was monotonously ideal. Not even in my own heart did the reason reside. Conscience and I were divorced at last and the decree made absolute. With my scruples had fled all fear, and I was ready to revel between bright skies and sparkling sea with the light hearted detachment of Raffles himself. It was Raffles himself who prevented me, but not Raffles alone. It was Raffles and that colossal minx on her way home from school.

What he could see in her—but that begs the question. Of course he saw no more than I did, but to annoy me, or perhaps to punish me for my long defection, he must turn his back on me and devote himself to this chit from Southampton to the Mediterranean. They were always together. It was too absurd. After breakfast they would begin and go on until 11 or 12 at night. There was no intervening hour at which you might not hear her nasal laugh or his quiet voice talking soft nonsense into her ear. Of course it was nonsense. Is it conceivable that a man like Raffles, with his knowledge of the world and his experience of women—a side of his character upon which I have purposely never touched, for it deserves another volume—is it credible, I ask, that such a man could find anything but nonsense to talk by the day together to a giddy young schoolgirl? I would not be unfair for the world. I think I have admitted that the young person had points. Her eyes, I suppose, were really fine, and certainly the shape of the little brown face was charming, so far as mere contour can charm. I admit also more audacity than I cared about, with enviable health, mettle and vitality. I may not have occasion to report any of this young lady's speeches (they would scarcely bear it), and am therefore the more anxious to describe her without injustice. I confess to some little prejudice against her. I resented her success with Raffles, of whom, in consequence, I saw less and less each day. It is a mean thing to have to confess, but there must have been something not unlike jealousy ranking within me.

Jealousy there was in another quarter—crude, rampant, undignified jealousy. Captain Von Heumann would curl his mustaches into twin spires, shoot his white cuffs over his rings and stare at me insolently through his rimless eyeglasses. We ought to have consoled each other, but we never exchanged a syllable. The captain had a murderous scar across one of his cheeks, a present from Heidelberg, and I used to think how he must long to have Raffles there to serve the same. It was not as though Von Heumann never had his innings. Raffles let him go in several times a day for the malicious pleasure of bowling him out as he was "getting set." Those were his words when I taxed him disingenuously with obnoxious conduct toward a German on a German boat.

"You'll make yourself disliked on board."

"By Von Heumann merely."

"But is that wise when he's the man we've got to get next to?"

"The wisest thing I ever did. To have chummed up with him would have been fatal—the common dodge."

I was consoled, encouraged, almost content. I had feared Raffles was neglecting things, and I told him so in a burst. Here we were near Gibraltar, and not a word since the Solent. He shook his head with a smile.

"Plenty of time, Bunny; plenty of time. We can do nothing before we get to Genoa, and that won't be till Sunday night. The voyage is still young and so are we. Let's make the most of things while we can."

It was after dinner on the promenade deck, and as Raffles spoke, he glanced sharply fore and aft, leaving me next moment with a step full of purpose. I retired to the smoking room to smoke and read in a corner and to watch Von Heumann, who very soon came to drink beer and to talk in another.

Few travelers tempt the Red sea at midsummer. The Thian was very empty indeed. She had, however, but a limited supply of cabins on the promenade deck, and there was just that excuse for my sharing Raffles' room. I could have had one to myself downstairs, but I must be up above. Raffles had insisted that I should insist on the point, so we were together. I think, without suspicion, though also without any object that I could see.

On the Sunday morning I was asleep in my berth—the lower one—when the curtains were shaken by Raffles, who was in his shirt sleeves on the settee.

"Achilles snoring in his bunk."

"What else is there to do?" I asked him as I stretched and yawned. I noted, however, the good humor of his tone and did my best to catch it.

"I have found something else, Bunny."

"I dare say."

"You misunderstand me. The whipper-snapper's making his country this afternoon. I've had other fish to fry."

I saw my legs over the side of my berth and sat forward, as he was sitting, all attention. The inner door, a grating, was shut and bolted and curtained like the open porthole.

"We shall be at Genoa before sunset," continued Raffles. "It's the place where the deed's got to be done."

"So you still mean to do it?"

"Did I ever say I didn't?"

"You have said so little either way."

"Advisedly so, my dear Bunny. Why spoil a pleasure trip by talking unnecessary shop? But now the time has come. It must be done at Genoa or not at all."

"On land?"

"No, on board, tomorrow night. Tomorrow would do, but tomorrow is better in case of mishap. If we were forced to use violence we could get away by the earliest train and nothing be known till the ship was sailing and Von Heumann found dead or drugged."

"Not dead?" I exclaimed.

"Of course not," assented Raffles, "or there would be no need for us to bolt. But, if we should have to bolt, Tuesday morning is our time, when this ship has got to sail whatever happens. But I don't anticipate any violence. Violence is a confession of terrible incompetence. In all these years how many blows have you known me to strike? Not one, I believe, but I have been quite ready to kill my man every time if the worst came to the worst."

I asked him how he proposed to enter Von Heumann's stateroom unobserved, and even through the curtained gloom of our his face lighted up.

"Climb into my bunk, Bunny, and you shall see."

I did so, but could see nothing. Raffles reached across me and tapped the ventilator, a sort of trapdoor in the wall above his bed, some eighteen inches long and half that height. It opened outward into the ventilating shaft.

"That," said he, "is our door to fortune. Open it if you like. You won't see much, because it doesn't open far, but loosening a couple of screws will set that all right. The shaft, as you may see, is more or less bottomless; you pass under it whenever you go to your bath, and the top is a skylight on the bridge. That's why this thing has to be done while we're at Genoa, because they keep no watch on the bridge in port. The ventilator opposite ours is Von Heumann's. It again will only mean a couple of screws, and there's a beam to stand on while you work."

"But if anybody should look up from below?"

"It's extremely unlikely that anybody will be astir below—so unlikely that we can afford to chance it. No, I can't have you there to make sure. The great point is that neither of us should be seen from the time we turn in. A couple of sleepers below us go on the deck, and they shall be our witnesses. By Jove, it'll be the biggest mystery that ever was made."

"If Von Heumann doesn't rest it."

"Rest! He won't get the chance. No drinks too much beer to sleep light, and nothing is so easy as to chloroform a heavy sleeper. You've even done it yourself on an occasion of which I'll perhaps un'air to remind you. Von Heumann will be put sensation almost as soon as I get my hand through his ventilator. I shall crawl in over his body, Bunny, my boy."

"And I?"

"You will bend me what I want and hold the fort in case of accidents and generally lend me the moral support you've made me require. It's a luxury, Bunny, but I found it devilish difficult to do without it after you turned up."

He said that Von Heumann was certain to sleep with a bolted door, which he, of course, would leave unbolted, and spoke of other ways of laying a false scent while rifling the cabin. Not that Raffles anticipated a tiresome search. The pearl would be about Von Heumann's person—in fact, Raffles knew exactly where and in what he kept it. Naturally I asked how he could have come by such knowledge, and his answer led up to a momentary unpleasantness.

"It's a very old story, Bunny. I really forget in what book it comes; I'm only sure of the Testament. But Samson was the unlucky hero and one Delilah the heroine."

And he looked so knowing that I could not be in a moment's doubt as to his meaning.

"So the fair Australian has been playing Delilah?" said I.

"In a very harmless, innocent sort of way."

"She got his mission out of him?"

"Yes, I've forced him to score all the points he could, and that was his great stroke, as I hoped it would be. He has even shown me the pearl."

"Amey, eh? And she promptly told you?"

"Nothing of the kind. What makes you think so? I had the greatest trouble in getting it out of her."

His tone should have been a sufficient warning to me. I had not the tact to take it as such. At last I knew the meaning of his furious flirtation and stood wagging my head and shaking my finger, blinded to his frowns by my own enlightenment.

"Wily woman!" said I. "Now I see through it all. How dense I've been!"

"Sure you're not still?"

"No; now I understand what has beaten me all the week. I simply couldn't fathom what you saw in that little girl. I never dreamed it was part of the game."

"So you think it was that and nothing more?"

"You deep old dog—of course I do!"

"You didn't know she was the daughter of a wealthy squatter?"

"There are wealthy women by the dozen who would marry you tomorrow."

"It doesn't occur to you that I might like to draw stumps, start clean and live happily ever after—in the bush?"

"With that voice? It certainly does not!"

"Bunny!" he cried so fiercely that I braced myself for a blow.

But no more followed.

"Do you think you would live happily?" I made bold to ask him.

"God knows!" he answered. And with that he left me to marvel at his look and tone and more than ever at the insufficiently exciting cause.

Of all the mere feats of cracksmanship which I have seen Raffles perform at once the most delicate and most difficult was that which he accomplished between 1 and 2 o'clock on the Tuesday morning aboard the North German steamer Thian, lying at anchor in Genoa harbor.

Not a hitch occurred. Everything had been foreseen; everything happened as I had been assured everything must. Nobody was about below, only the ship's boys on deck and nobody on the bridge. It was twenty-five minutes past 1 when Raffles, without a stitch of clothing on his body, but with a glass vial, corked with cottonwood, between his teeth, and a tiny screwdriver behind his ear, squirmed feet first through the ventilator over his berth, and it was nineteen minutes to 2 when he returned, head first, with the vial still between his teeth and the cottonwood rammed home to still the rattling of that which lay like a great gray bean within. He had taken screws out and put them in again; he had unfastened Von Heumann's ventilator and had left it fast as he had found it—fast as he instantly proceeded to make his own. As for Von Heumann, it had been enough to place the drenched head first on his mustache and then to hold it between his gaping lips; thereafter the intruder had climbed both ways across his shins without eliciting a groan.

And here was the prize—this pearl as large as a filbert, with a pale pink tinge like a lady's finger nail; this spoil of a filibustering age; this gift from a European emperor to a south sea chief. We gloated over it when all was snug. We toasted it in whisky and soda water laid in overnight in view of the great moment, but the moment was greater, more triumphant than our most sanguine dreams. All we had now to do was to secrete the gem which Raffles had pried from its setting, replacing the latter, so that we could stand the strictest search and yet take it ashore with us at Naples, and this Raffles was doing when I turned in. I myself would have landed inconspicuously that night at Genoa and bolted with the spoil; he would not hear of it, for a dozen good reasons which will be obvious.

On the whole I do not think that anything was discovered or suspected before we reached our anchor, but I cannot be sure. It is difficult to believe that a man could be chloroformed in his sleep and feel no telltale effects, sniff no suspicious odor in the morning. Nevertheless Von Heumann reappeared as though nothing had happened to him. His German cap over his eyes and his mustaches brushing to peak. And by 10 o'clock we were quit of Genoa. The last lean, blue-clad official had left our decks. The last fruit seller had been beaten off with bucketfuls of water and left cursing us from his boat. The last passenger had come aboard at the last moment—a fussy graybeard who kept the big ship waiting while he bargained with his bounties over half a lira. But at length we were off, the tug was shed, the lighthouse passed and Italianes and I leaned together over the rail watching our shadows on the pale green, liquid, veined marble that again washed the vessel's side.

Von Heumann was having his innings once more. It was part of the design that he should remain in all day and so postpone the inevitable hour, and, though the lady looked bored and was forever glancing in our direction, he seemed only too willing to avail himself of his opportunities. But Raffles was moody and ill at ease. He had not the air of a successful man. I could but opine that the impending parting at Naples sat heavily on his spirit.

He would neither talk to me nor would he let me go.

"Stop where you are, Bunny. I've things to tell you. Can you swim?"

"A bit."

"Ten miles?"

"Ten?" I burst out laughing. "Not one. Why do you ask?"

"We shall be within a ten miles' swim of the shore most of the day."

"What on earth are you driving at, Raffles?"

"Nothing. Only I shall swim for it if the worst comes to the worst. I suppose you can't swim under water at all?"

I did not answer his question. I scarcely heard it. Cold beads were bursting through my skin.

"Why should the worst come to the worst?" I whispered. "We aren't found out, are we?"

"No."

"Then why speak as though we were?"

"We may be. An old enemy of ours is on board."

"An old enemy?"

"Mackenzie."

"Never!"

"The man with the beard who came aboard last."

"Are you sure?"

"Sure! I was only sorry to see you didn't recognize him too."

I took my handkerchief to my face. Now that I thought of it there had been something familiar in the old man's gait as well as something rather youthful for his apparent years. His very beard seemed unconvinced now that I recalled it in the light of this horrible revelation. I looked up and down the deck, but the old man was nowhere to be seen.

"That's the worst of it," said Raffles. "I saw him go into the captain's cabin twenty minutes ago."

"But what can have brought him?"

I cried miserably. "Can it be a coincidence. Is it somebody else he's after?"

Raffles shook his head.

"Hardly this time."

"Then you think he's after you?"

"I've been afraid of it for some weeks."

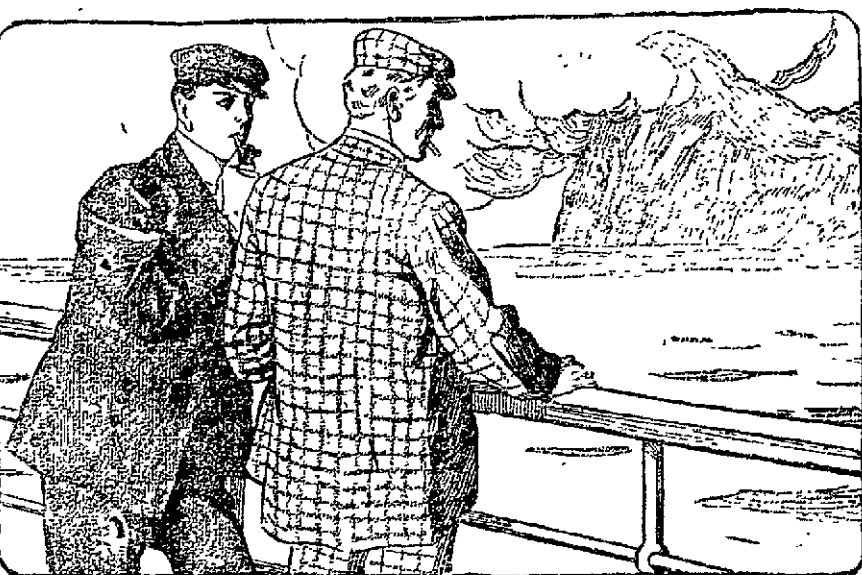

"Yet there you stand."

"What am I to do? I don't want to swim for it before I must. I begin to wish I'd taken your advice, Bunny, and left the ship at Genoa. But I've not the smallest doubt that Mac was watching both ship and station till the last moment. That's why he ran it so fine."

He took a cigarette and handed me the case, but I shook my head impatiently.

"I still don't understand," said I. "Why should he be after you? He couldn't come all this way about a jewel which was perfectly safe for all he knew. What's your own theory?"

"Simply that he's been on my track for some time, probably ever since friend Crawshaw shipped clean through his fingers last November. There have been other indications. I am really not prepared for this. But it can only be pure suspicion. I'll defy him to bring anything home, and I'll defy him to find the pearl. Theory, my dear Bunny? I know how he's got here as well as though I'd been inside that Scotchman's skin, and I know what he'll do next. He found out I'd gone abroad and looked for a motive. He found out about Von Heumann and his mission, and there was his motive out and out. Great chances to make me on a new job altogether. But he won't do it. Rummy. Mark my words: he'll search the ship and search us all when the loss is known, but he'll search in vain. And there's the skipper looking for a whipper-snapper or his land, which toned well with her complexion and was cleverly relieved with touches of scarlet. I quite admired her that afternoon, for her eyes were really very good and so were her teeth, yet I had never admired her more directly in my own despite, for I passed them again and again in order to get a word with Raffles, to tell him I knew there was danger in the wind. But he would not so much as catch my eye. So at last I gave it up. And I saw him next in the captain's cabin.

He had summoned him first. He had gone in smiling, and smiling I found him when they summoned me. The stateroom was spacious, as befitting that of a commander. Mackenzie sat on the settee, his beard in front of him on the polished table, but a revolver lay in front of the captain, and when I had entered the chief officer, who had summoned me, shut the door and put his back to it. Von Heumann completed the party, his fingers busy with his mustache.

Raffles greeted me.

"This is a great joke!" he cried. "You remember the pearl you were so keen about, Bunny, the emperor's pearl, the pearl money wouldn't buy? It seems it was intrusted to our little friend here to take out to Canoodle Dunn, and the poor little chap's gone and lost it. Ergo, as we're Britishers they think we've got it."

"But I know ye have," put in Mackenzie, nodding to his beard.

"You will recognize that loyal and patriotic voice," said Raffles. "Mon, 'tis our old acquaintance Mackenzie of Scotland Yard an' Scotland Yard!"

"That is enough," cried the captain. "Have you submit to be searge or do I voice you?"

"What you will," said Raffles, "but it will do you no harm to give us fair play first. You accuse us of breaking into Captain Von Heumann's stateroom during the small hours of this morning and abstracting from it this confounded pearl. Well, I can prove that I was in my own room all night long, and I have no doubt my friend can prove the same."

"Most certainly I can," said I indignantly. "The ship's boys can bear witness to that."

Mackenzie laughed and shook his head at his reflection in the polished mahogany.

"That was ver' clever," said he, "and like enough it would be served ye had I not stepped aboard. But I've just had a look at the ventilators, and I think I know how ye worked it. Any way, captain, it makes no matter. I'll just be clapping the darbies on these young sparks, an' then—"

"By what right?" roared Raffles in a ringing voice, and I never saw his face in such a blaze. "Search us if you like, search every scrap and stitch we possess, but you dare to lay a finger on us without a warrant!"

"I wouldn't dare," said Mackenzie gravely as he fumbled in his breast pocket, and Raffles dived his hand into his own. "Hand his wrist!" shouted the Scotchman, and the huge Colt that had been with us many a night, but had never been fired in my hearing, clattered on the table and was raked in by the captain.

"All right," said Raffles savagely to the mate. "You can let go now. I won't try it again. Now, Mackenzie, let's see your warrant!"

"We'll no misleadle it!"

"What good would that do me? Let me see it," said Raffles peremptorily, and the detective obeyed. Raffles raised his eyebrows as he perused the document; his mouth hardened, but suddenly relaxed, and it was with a smile and a shrug that he returned the paper.

"Well that do for ye?" inquired Mackenzie.

"It may. I congratulate you, Mac, on a strong hand, at any rate. Two burglaries and the Melrose necklace, Biffy!" And he turned to me with a rueful smile.

"An' all easy to prove," said the Scotchman, pocketing the warrant. "I've one o' these for you," he added, nodding to me, "only not such a long one."

"To think," said the captain reproachfully, "that my ship should be made a den of thieves! It shall be a very disagreeable madder. I have been obliged to put you both in irons until we get to Naples."

"Surely not!" exclaimed Raffles. "Mackenzie, intercede with him. Don't give your countrymen away before all hands. Captain, we can't escape. Surely you could hush it up for the night? Look here, here's everything I have in my pockets. You empty yours, too, Bunny, and they shall strip us stark if they suspect we've weapons up our sleeves. All I ask is that we be allowed to get out of this without gyves upon our wrists."

"Weapons you may not have," said the captain. "But what about der pearl dat you were dealing?"

"You shall have it!" cried Raffles. "You shall have it this minute if you guarantee no public indignity on board!"

"That I'll see to," said Mackenzie, "as long as you behave yourselves. There now, where is it?"

"On the table under your nose."

My eyes fell with the rest, but no pearl was there. Only the contents of our pockets—our watches, pocketbooks, pencils, penknives, cigarette cases—lay on the shiny table along with the revolver already mentioned.

"Ye're humbuggin' us," said Mackenzie. "What's the use?"

"I'm doing nothing of the sort," laughed Raffles. "I'm testing you. Where's the harm?"

"It's here, jokin' apart?"

"On that table, by all my gods."

Mackenzie opened the cigarette cases and shook each particular cigarette. Thereupon Raffles prayed to be allowed to smoke one, and when his prayer was heard observed that the pearl had been on the table much longer than the cigarettes. Mackenzie promptly caught up the Colt and opened the chamber in the butt.

"Not there, not there," said Raffles, "but you're getting hot. Try the cartridges."

Mackenzie emptied them into his palm and shook each one at his ear without result.

"Oh, give them to me!"

And in an instant Raffles had found the right one, had bitten out the bullet and placed the emperor's pearl with a flourish in the center of the table.

"After that you will perhaps show me such little consideration as is in your power. Captain, I have been a bit of a villain, as you see, and as such I am ready and willing to lie in irons all night if you deem it requisite for the safety of the ship. All I ask is that you do me one favor first."

"That shall depend on wad der vafor has been."

"Captain, I've done a worse thing aboard your ship than any of you know. I have become engaged to be married, and I want to say goodby."

I suppose we were all equally amazed, but the only one to express his amazement was Von Heumann, whose deep chested German oath was almost his first contribution to the proceedings. He was not slow to follow it, however, with a vigorous protest against the proposed farewell. But he was overruled, and the masterful prisoner had his way. He was to have five minutes with the girl while the captain and Mackenzie stood within range, but not within earshot, with their revolvers behind their backs. As we were moving from the cabin in a body he stopped and gripped my hand.

"So I've let you in at last, Bunny—at last and after all! If you knew how sorry I am. But you won't get much. I don't see why you should get anything at all. Can you forgive me? This may be for years, and it may be forever, you know! You were a good pal always when it came to the scratch. Some day or other you mayn't be sorry to remember you were a good pal at the last!"

There was a meaning in his eye that I understood, and my teeth were set and, my nerves strung ready as I wrung that strong and cunning hand for the last time in my life.

How that last scene stays with me and will stay to my death! How I see every detail, every shadow on the sunlit deck! We were among the islands that dot the course from Genoa to Naples. That was Elba falling back on our starboard quarter, that purple patch with the hot sun settling over it. The captain's cabin opened to starboard, and the starboard promenade deck, sheathed with sunshine and scored with shadow, was deserted but for the group of which I was one, and for the pale, slim, brown figure aft with Raffles. Engaged? I could not believe it, cannot to this day. Yet there they stood together, and we did not bear a word. There they stood out against the sunset and the long, dazzling highway of sunlight that sparkled from Elba to the Thian's plates, and their shadows reached almost to our feet.

Suddenly—an instant—and the thing was done, a thing I have never known whether to admire or to detest. He caught her, he kissed her before us all, then flung her from him so that she almost fell. It was that action which foretold the next. The mate sprang after him, and I sprang after the mate. Raffles was on the rail, but only just.

"Hold him, Bunny!" he cried. "Hold him tight!"

And as I obeyed that last behest with all my might, without a thought of what I was doing save that he bade me to do it, I saw his hands shoot up and his head bob down, and his lithe, spare body cut the sunset as cleanly

VAN HORN VISITS GRANVILLE

CASE, RESERVE AND KENTON WILL ALL
MEET DENISON

Webber and Livingston Both Eligible
According to Big Six Rules—Ellor
Stands the Investigation.

Columbus, O., Oct. 23.—"Case will play Denison this fall. So will Western Reserve and Kenyon," said Prof. J. F. Van Horn of the Case management, last night at the Chittenden after he had returned to Columbus from a trip to Granville.

It seems that Kenyon and Western Reserve passed the whole question up to Case. So Mr. Van Horn made a personal trip of inspection to Granville and heard the Denison side of the story.

He thinks that both Weber and Livingston are eligible. The Ellor case was put up to him in a new light and he sees nothing against the big player.

However, it is probable that Captain Roubush will be declared ineligible, not because of any connection with the Dayton National Cash Register company ball team but because he has played college football four years.

Roubush played on the Denison varsity, it is said, when he was a senior in the academy and has been on the team for the last three years as a collegiate student.

Professor Colwell of Denison will take up the case of Roubush with the conference members. If they hold that the Denison captain has no right to play, he will drop out.

Before leaving Granville, Professor Van Horn gave Denison officials his pledge that Case will keep its date and assured them that Western Reserve and Kenyon would do likewise.

The Cleveland did not sit around with its hands folded while in Columbus. He had two conferences with Professor Thomas of Ohio State. At the first one, he got the details of State's dispute with Denison.

Mr. Van Horn would not say that Case would or would not file any protests against any man whose name is down on the Ohio State's certified list as eligible to play Saturday.

From another reliable source, it was learned that the status of Reimsnyder will be looked into and that some questions will be asked about Carr, another State end whose name is on the list.

Reimsnyder was here last year but dropped out of school. In order to have him reinstated this fall, it was represented to the "Big Six" board that he left college on account of illness. It is claimed that Case has a statement from a relative to the effect that the player in question has been ill for the past twelve months, at least.

What is said to be Carr's picture appears in this fall's football guide as a member of the Swarthmore team. Unless he graduated there, he may be ruled out.

However, Carr has a bad knee and it is doubtful if he can even get into a suit in time for the Case game.

Late Saturday night word was received here through Dr. Colwell, chairman of the Denison athletic board that all trouble imminent regarding the game between the Denison eleven and Kenyon next Saturday had been adjusted and that the game would be played. The two managements got together Saturday and made arrangements to play the game as scheduled. Both made concessions it is said, and according to the story, one of the Big Six teams has not followed the wishes of its coach, as stated might be the case in yesterday's press dispatches out of Cleveland.

Medics Win From Ohio Northern But Could Not Prevent a Score—Sat. urdays Football Results.

Columbus, O., Oct. 23.—Ohio State won handsily from the light Depauw eleven Saturday by the score of 32 to 6. Captain Douglas of Depauw, sprinted 90 yards for a touchdown, circling Foster's end in the prettiest run seen here this year. Ohio State was too much for the light visitors, however, and she had no trouble in making her points.

Depauw's defense was very weak. Her offense was better, but not strong enough to hold the fall for any length of time. Plenty of substitutes were used, and one or two good men were held in reserve for the Case game. Lincoln and Woodbury were not asked to go in the game at all.

Captain Hoyer was weak at kicking goals, missing four. He also failed at two attempts to kick goal from field. He tried one from the 50 yards line, which fell just short enough to hit the crossbar below the middle and fail at a successful attempt.

State came out of the game without a scratch and in good condition. Columbus, O., Oct. 23.—Ohio Medical university Saturday had no trouble in defeating Ohio Northern 27 to 5. The local men got the charge on the heavy visitors and exhibited great team work. The line smashing of Swan was a feature as well as the good heady work of Farson at quarter.

In the second half the visitors braced and carried the ball forty yards for a touchdown. They spent their force in doing so, and the rest was easy. Means kicked a goal from placement.

NEWARK LOST GAME
BY A SINGLE POINT

Failure to Kick Goal Results in Zanesville Victory—Game Was Exciting From Start.

Zanesville, O., Oct. 23.—Victory was again brought into the camp of the Zanesville high school football team Saturday afternoon at the county fair grounds, in one of the best played games of the season. The Newark high school eleven, the opponents of the local team, were fully as heavy as the home team. However, the work of the backs on the high school team was far superior to those opposing them. Nothing was scored in the first half, but in the second half, after eight minutes of play the locals scored a touchdown and kicked goal, thus making six points while the best the visitors could do was to make a touchdown, making them five.

By straight football and clever work on the part of the backs the ball was carried close to the Newark goal, and the large crowd which was in attendance cheered loudly for the home team but they were unable to make the necessary gains on three downs, and the ball was turned over to the other side. The rest of the first half the ball changed hands several times and remained in the same territory.

After an intermission play was resumed and the ball was finally placed behind the goal posts of Newark. Lewis, the clever little quarterback of the local team, kicked goal. Three minutes later the visitors crossed Zanesville's goal. However, they failed to kick goal and the game ended Zanesville 6, Newark 5, and there was not time enough left in the half for either side to score.

Following is the line up of the team. It will be noticed that several of the regular players are out of the game, but the team played very hard at all times despite the fact that Captain Dye was unable to participate.

Zanesville: McDonald lc; Smith lt; Hill rg; Young c; Powell rg; Hamilton rt; Rogers re; Lewis qb; Abele lt; Logsdon rb; Poe fb.

Newark: Bell lc; Metz lt; Shirer lg; Ramsey c; McCabe rg; Prior rt; Slater re; Upson qb; Beecher lb; Conley rb; Russell fb.

Twenty and fifteen minute halves were played.

NEWARK A. A.
Will Play in Coshocton Next Saturday. Games Being Arranged With Fast Columbus Team.

Newark Athletic Association football team is making a hard effort to get into condition for the big game at Coshocton next Saturday when they meet the Athletic club team of that city. The latter team has a reputation for playing fast football and the locals want to win.

The team practices every Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights in a large field just east of the Heisey factory, where two electric lights make it possible to work the signals. Every member of the team is urged to be out tonight.

Games are being arranged with Muskingum, Shelby and the Indiana team of Columbus.

FOOTBALL GOSSIP

Graduate Manager Bush, of Ohio Medical university, and the management of Denison university closed a deal Saturday whereby Denison will be the Thanksgiving attraction at Columbus, at Recreation park. The game will draw well, it is expected, owing to the close game of earlier in the season and the large following which both teams have in the city. The Medics also have arranged to play Findlay college here on Friday in lieu of the Muskingum game, which has been cancelled by the latter management owing to poor condition of the team.

A news item recently said that Ohio State football players were attending Bible class. Those three coaches who declared against Denison at Cleveland Saturday perhaps, skipped a few lessons. They studied this golden rule, "Do others, as they might do you, but do it first."

There is not much food for happy thought at Denison right now. When teams do not disband and the rains do not wall the "Little Fellows" in the "Big Six" conspiracy against them. There are plenty of "little fellows" in the "Big Six" too. "Little Fellow" here is construed to mean "Nigger in the bush."

It is suggested to the Denison football management that it visit a graveyard some night and get the drop on a "moon eyed" rabbit and secure a new foot. Perhaps Denison will be able to get in one football game this fall by so doing.

Oberlin ought now to call off all athletic relations with Wooster. The team met defeat at their hands and that seems to be an unpardonable sin in the "Little Six." Some of these teams have yet to learn that there are football teams in Ohio outside of this joke producing circle.—Columbus Dispatch.

Many college professors are engaged in the holy work of gathering information which will assist rival institutions in detecting professionals on their teams. The Utopian age is surely dawning with such brotherly assistance evident on every side.

There has arisen considerable discussion about the length of halves in the Case game for October 28. Cleveland authorities gave out information at first that they would be 35 minutes in length. The contract reads that the halves shall be 30 minutes and Ohio State people "know this. They announce this morning that all talk about State insisting on 35-minute halves is pure gossip. "They will be 30 minutes in length," said Captain Hoyer this morning. "No one ever thought of anything else. The contract calls for that."

Some man suggests (evidently not a lover of the game), that when some one wants to change his features instead of shaving off his mustache just get into a football scrimmage or two. That, is according to his "dope," said to be the most effectual remedy.

Football Victim.
Williamant, Conn., Oct. 23.—John C. Dondoro, 27, died as the result of an injury received in a football game in Jewett City. Doctors state that a cerebral hemorrhage was the cause of his death, superinduced by the player's poor physical condition at the time. A brother of Dondoro was kicked in the eye soon afterward and will lose the eye.

NOTICE.
The election of directors of the Licking county Agricultural Society will be held Saturday, October 28, basement of court house, from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.—four to be elected.

Parties desiring to be candidates for members of the board will file their names with the secretary by 6 p. m., October 26.

Cleveland, Oct. 23.—The Gilchrist Transportation company has had no word since Friday of the steamer J. Hecker, one of the biggest on the lakes. She left St. Clair for Duluth on Friday with ore, and carried 22 men besides Captain W. G. Stewart.

SUNDAY'S FARGE

Was Lost by the Newark Team With Bissell and Purcell Pitching. Springfield Didn't Come.

The ball game at Idlewild park was a big farce Sunday afternoon and the Newark team with a number of amateurs in the outfield, lost to the Consumers' team of the City league. The score at the end of the game stood 5 to 1. Bissell and Purcell pitched and the amateur team seemed to have no trouble in landing the curves. The Springfield team did not come on account of the threatening weather and the game was called off Sunday morning. Later, however, Joe Doyle got the Consumers' bunch together and the game was played before a small crowd.

Secretary Taft's Remarkable Speech.

There is consternation in the Republican camp over the speech of Secretary Taft at Akron, Saturday. The Secretary's outspoken declarations against the corrupt bossism of George B. Cox were fully up to every allegation that has been made by the Democrats and Republican opponents of Herrick from the beginning of the campaign. Every Republican politician is dismayed today at this vital admission on the part of Mr. Taft. At the same time intelligent citizens of all parties must recognize the fact that the Secretary reflected the real sentiments of President Roosevelt when he arraigned the Cox machine. But the Secretary had been called upon by the Republican State Committee to make the Akron speech to save Herrick. For this reason Mr. Taft made the argument that the defeat of Herrick could not in any way injure the Cox machine. No attempt whatever on the part of Mr. Taft was made to defend Cox or to deny the evil power and influence of his machine as a controlling force in Ohio politics. The only argument Mr. Taft could offer to induce decent Republicans to vote for Herrick was that the Governor's defeat could not in any way injure the Cox machine or diminish its power for evil in Cincinnati, or the State. The people will accept Mr. Taft's arraignment of Coxism and the effect of his speech cannot be otherwise than detrimental to Herrick and beneficial to Pattison. The Secretary has certainly furnished a powerful weapon to the thousands of Republicans who are in revolt against Herrick on account of the bossism of Cox.

These Republicans are demanding a reform that can come in no other way than by defeating Herrick, whose administration they know is under and has been under Boss Cox rule. The Republican opponents of the Cox machine make the argument that when its control of the Republican state organization is destroyed when the Cincinnati boss shall no longer be allowed to dictate the nominations at Republican state conventions, when the power of George B. Cox to dictate legislation over the telephone shall cease, then, and not till then, can Cox bossism be de-throned in Cincinnati.

In answer to questions put by the American Tribune's article regarding payment to Attorney A. A. Stasel for professional services for the city, Mr. John P. Lamb calls attention to the fact that no such allowance has been made by the Board of Public Service. Mr. Lamb states specifically that the board has had nothing to do whatever with the employment of attorneys whose services have been paid or are to be paid out of the city treasury. Mr. Lamb has stated that if any attorney has a claim for services to the board he will pay the same out of his own pocket, and he says he still stands by that statement.

Secretary Taft's Arraignment of Boss Cox.
In his Akron speech last Saturday, Secretary of War Taft, who, of course, represents Roosevelt, made the following terrible arraignment of Boss Geo. B. Cox, which exceeds in thoroughness anything that has been said against Cox by Pattison or any one else:
"The Hamilton County machine is the result of from fifteen to twenty years' labor by George B. Cox, a man of great executive talent and political sagacity. Beginning with the politics of the war he has created a political organization in the city of Cincinnati and the county of Hamilton founded on the cohesive power of public patronage, which operates as smoothly to control the nominations and the elections in the city and county as a nicely adjusted Corliss engine. The whole government of both county and city is absolutely under his control, and every Republican political convention nominates the men whom he dictates. The government under the machine is constantly described as a very corrupt one."

Secretary Taft's Arraignment of Boss Cox.

The above statement of Secretary of War Taft is all that Democrats have been claiming of George B. Cox.

So Chairman Dick, of Cox's state headquarters had to make a hurried trip to Washington to exploit some of his campaign maneuvers, and this so shortly after he claimed that the message he delivered to Ohio Republicans was from President Roosevelt. It's a rocky road the politician-senator is traveling these days.

It looks as if the old-time side editor was getting in his work in the columns of the American-Tribune. We have seen the effect of this on our local politics in times past, especially in the increased majorities of those Democratic candidates who were singled out for assault.

The organs of Cox machine are not so anxious to make the insurance question an issue in the state since John M. Pattison handed Governor Herrick the warmest reply that has been made since the campaign opened. The governor himself is so associated that other questions may become live issues before the close of the campaign, and the governor finds trouble enough arising from other issues to keep him busy explaining.

The "regular" Republican papers are claiming that the reports from Cleveland are most encouraging. It is easy to claim, but not so easy for the Republicans to carry Cleveland. Governor Herrick will be badly beaten in his home city.

The Medina Gazette, which last week bolted the head of the Republican state ticket, said in doing so that Governor Herrick was nominated in a convention in which the chosen delegates of half a million Republicans of Ohio had as little to say about the ticket or platform as would a huddle of homeless dogs in Medina's public square, that it was a dummy convention, forestalled and muzzled. That is what the governor and his campaign managers would call abuse, slander and calumny. At the same time this is the sentiment that undoubtedly inspired Secretary Taft to arraign George B. Cox at Akron.

MASONIC CHARM FOR MR. PITZER

PRESENTATION SPEECH MADE BY PROSECUTOR J. R. FITZGIBBON.

On Behalf of Court House Officials and a Few Other Friends Monday Morning.

One of those pleasant occasions that serve more closely to cement the ties of humanity, occurred at the Court House on Monday. About 10 o'clock little groups of men began assembling and to the uninitiated it looked like a convention was about to be held. This was not the case, however, and when Prosecuting Attorney Fitzgibbon stepped to the front and tapped ex-County Auditor A. R. Pitzer on the shoulder and told him he had been deputized to read an indictment that had been found against him, those present crowded around them eager to hear Mr. Fitzgibbon, after Mr. Pitzer had recovered from his surprise, in his peculiar and unique eloquence started forth in a speech laudatory of Mr. Pitzer, in which he dwelt on the fact that after 25 years service in the office of County Auditor, as Deputy and Auditor, he has the best wishes of his numerous friends for future success. When he had concluded he on behalf of his friends in the court house and a number outside of it, presented Mr. Pitzer with a beautiful Masonic charm of solid gold set with rubies and diamonds. The charm, which is an exceedingly handsome one, represents on one side the thirty-second Masonic degree and on the reverse, the side the Knights Templar, and on the interior the Chapter.

Mr. Pitzer was taken completely by surprise, but managed to recover his presence of mind and say something. He said that he wished he had command of language sufficient to fully express his feelings. He thanked his friends for their manifestations of good will and fellowship and said that he would ever cherish their gift as one of his most valued possessions.

TO KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM.

Is the Only Possible Way of Having An Effective Cure.
If you see a woman or a man with luxuriant glossy hair, you may be sure neither has dandruff to amount to anything. In nearly every case where women and men have thin brittle hair, they owe it to dandruff. There are hundreds of preparations that "claim" to cure dandruff, but not one but Newbro's Herpicide tells you that dandruff is the result of a germ burrowing into the scalp and that permanent cure of dandruff and its consequent falling and baldness, can only be had by killing the germ; and there is no other preparation that will destroy that germ but Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.
Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.
Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.
Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. J. C. Kilmer, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

First of Series Telling of Life and Conditions in the Sandwich Group Will Appear Tomorrow.

Tomorrow's Advocate will contain the first of a series of letters from the pen of Dr. Daniel Shepardson, the well known wheel chair evangelist, who is now in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Dr. and Mrs. Shepardson left Newark last month to visit these islands in the Pacific ocean and in the first letter the writer tells of his trip across the continent and over the ocean from San Francisco to the Sandwich Islands. In the second letter, soon to follow, Dr. Shepardson will write of the location, character, history, climate population and general present day conditions in the Hawaiian group of eight inhabited islands. The third letter will characterize the various classes of people living on this group of islands and will contain interesting incidents to illustrate the points brought out, and will also deal with the social and industrial conditions, the privileges and perils in Hawaii.

Dr. Shepardson is well known throughout America as a forceful writer and brilliant pulpit orator. He is a Granville man, a graduate of Doctor university and received his Doctor of Philosophy degree at Yale. Dr. Shepardson has many warm personal friends in Newark and is widely known here, having frequently preached in the Newark churches and at meetings of the Y. M. C. A. Advocate readers will be entertained and instructed by this series of letters from Dr. Shepardson. The first of the series will be published tomorrow and the others will follow at suitable intervals.

EIGHT PRIESTS ARE ASSISTING

CONFESSIONS TO BE HEARD IN EIGHT LANGUAGES AT THE CATHOLIC CHURCH.

Special Services This Week at St. Francis de Sales—Series of Lectures on Socialism.

Sunday evening a large congregation assembled in St. Francis de Sales church to assist at the devotions and hear a sermon from Father Joseph Wehrle of Bellaire introductory to the devotion, but he did not arrive in time and the sermon, or rather lecture was given by the pastor, Father O'Boylan. He spoke on the relation of Socialism to religious communities and proved that the comparison often made between the latter and the former as well as all other kinds of communism in the social state was only a likeness in name but not in reality. To be a good communist and to have peace under that form of government it would be necessary either to have the passions of men torn out or else send the whole community to a monastery to be trained in the practice of obedience and all the other virtues.

The speaker was listened to with a great deal of attention as he developed his theme and at the close he requested those interested in this most important subject to attend a series of lectures which he will give on Socialism the coming months. He also requested his audience to give him questions and objections to answer on the subject of Socialism and invited all who are interested to be present at future lectures.

Father Wehrle came in time to give the benediction of the blessed sacrament. Monday morning a solemn High Mass was celebrated by the pastor with Rev. B. Fitzpatrick as deacon and Father Dunne of Dresden as sub-deacon. After mass there was a procession of the Blessed Sacrament. The sight of so many beautiful little boys and girls wreathed in flowers and carrying baskets from which they strewed the choicest autumn beauties before their Saviour as He was carried in the hands of the celebrant, the beautiful canopy carried by four young men, the sweet perfumes of incense and above all the profound adoration of the people as the choir sang the grand old processional hymn, "Pange Lingua," all this should be seen and heard to be appreciated. The order of services is as follows, as announced after mass Monday morning: Sermon Monday and Tuesday evening by visiting priests. Father McEachen of Barton, will preach on Temperance on Tuesday, and as he has had a great deal of experience, having lived in Austria-Hungary for years and has charge for some years of a foreign-speaking congregation in this diocese, his discourse is sure to be interesting. Masses will be offered every morning at 5:30, 6:30 and 8:00. Confessions will be heard from 3 to 7 p. m. There will be eight priests assisting and confessions in eight languages will be heard to accommodate the heterogeneous congregation that belongs to the church. There are fully that many languages spoken in Newark. The services will close on Wednesday morning with solemn High Mass and procession like that which opened the devotion.

GOOD ROADS

Remember the good roads meeting at 7:30 tonight, convention room of court house. W. E. Loucks will speak. All who want better country roads are urged to attend.

Mrs. George A. Wilson fell Saturday morning at her home on First street and broke her right leg between the knee and hip. While the injury is quite serious, Dr. A. T. Speer, the attending physician, does not anticipate any serious results.

B. & O. Yard-Masters.

Quite a number of yard masters of the B. & O. railroad of the Ohio divisions, met in this city Monday for the purpose of exchanging ideas for the betterment of the service. While here they visited the Baltimore yards and shops and also some of the principal manufacturing of the city. Among those who were here were C. B. Pomphrey of Chicago Junction; J. Donahue of Columbus; J. W. Wray of Sandusky; C. C. Farrabee of Zanesville, and W. E. Porterfield of Benwood.

The B. & O. excursion from Chicago Junctions to Newark and Columbus on Sunday, carried about five hundred people, half of whom stopped over in Newark.

THE SAVINGS HABIT

The following editorial appeared in the Cleveland Press of recent date:

Have you a bank account? If not, why not? Your wages are small? Demands are large? Saving is impossible? Wrong! Saving is not impossible. The saving may not be large. It may be pitifully small at the first trial; but the saving will be a beginning and it will grow. There are several reasons why you should have a bank account, however modest it may be. First of all, some day you will need some ready money. Sickness, loss of work, a slight turn in the wheel of fortune—what will you do? Another reason may be found in content and peace of mind. He who has some savings feels more secure than does the spendthrift. Discontent and worries dog the footsteps of the man who lives up all his income. But the big reason is this: The saving habit is reflex in its action. It is an index of character.

It is easy to spend money. It requires effort to save it. The flabby-minded man lets go his money recklessly. The strong man resists the strong temptation to spend more money than he can afford, and, in resisting this temptation, becomes stronger. Nor need one grow stingy and hard-hearted. There are many inducements for a young man, especially to let go of his money. He is urged in a hundred ways to squander his hard-earned dollars foolishly. He who resists is laying the foundation for a strong business character. There are thousands, especially in the cities, who, drawing good salaries, gauge the outgo by the income. They do not save a cent. And it is usually these who envy the successful and point to the latter as lucky ones. Whereas, it is true that the foundation of every fortune has been laid in the habit of small savings.

Go to the savings bank and start an account, however small it may be. It is the habit of saving that is more important than the saving itself. Get the habit.

THE HOME BUILDING ASSOCIATION COMPANY, Newark's Great Savings Institution, pays four per cent. interest on savings accounts, compounded semi-annually. Established in 1880, this company has had a steady growth, and now has assets of nearly one million dollars, with about three thousand depositors.

MEN DESERT THEIR WORK

Railways Leading from Moscow Are Tied Up by a Strike.

TRAFFIC TOTALLY BLOCKED

Strike Likely to Cripple the Work of the East Russia Stricken Provinces and Impede the Movement of the Grain Crop — Great Suffering Anticipated.

Moscow, Oct. 23.—The strike of railway men has paralyzed traffic on seven trunk lines entering this city, and the commercial heart of Russia has been shut off from all communication with the rest of the empire except the narrow section to the northwest, including St. Petersburg and the Baltic provinces. Though the government has ordered the railroad battalions of the army to proceed to Moscow and take the places of the strikers for the purpose of restoring traffic, the revolutionists, by a sudden and unexpected blow, have shown their ability to lay their hands on the throats of the nation's commercial life. The city is already feeling the effects of a milk and meat famine, and a few days' continuance of the strike will cause serious embarrassment and even suffering to the population. The renewal of the factory strikes is not improvable.

The strike coming at this time is apt to seriously cripple the work of relief in the famine-stricken provinces and also to impede the movement of this year's grain crop, as the railroads even under normal conditions are not able to keep the grain crop moving promptly. Official reports show that 123,824 loaded cars were awaiting removal on Oct. 20 in various sections, and that the grain and coal handling districts are daily increasing their accumulations at the railroad stations. Great suffering is certain if the requisite supplies of grain and other provisions can not be forwarded into the famine-stricken districts where up to the present the work of relief has not been carried out successfully.

Return of Russian Soldiers.

Harbin, Manchuria, Oct. 23.—Now that the ratification of the peace treaty has been announced to the army, permission has been given by headquarters to telegraph the fact that the troops are being rapidly demobilized. All northbound trains from the positions are loaded with troops and their equipment. Half of all the native buildings in the northern part of Kuanchengtsu and vicinity have been requisitioned for use preparatory to this movement homeward, and many of the huts and buildings there and elsewhere will be used by those troops which the authorities will be unable to move before winter.

Reject Employers' Offer.

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 23.—The Fall River Textile council, representing the organized cotton mill operatives of the city, decided to reject the offer made by the Manufacturers' association last week to advance wages 5 per cent and introduce a profit-sharing plan. The council had requested the restoration of the reduction of 12 1/2 per cent which went into effect July 25, 1904. No immediate trouble in the mills is anticipated as the result of the disagreement, and it is probable that further negotiations will be conducted during the coming week.

RUSSIAN LOAN.

Three Hundred Millions the Amount. Negotiations On.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 23.—Negotiations for the floating of a new Russian loan are not expected to be completed before the end of a week. The representatives of the French, American, English and German groups of bankers have not yet arranged the bases of participation, and some delay is being caused by the illness of one of the French representatives. Nevertheless the negotiations are reported to be proceeding harmoniously, and the flotation of a large international loan, approximating $300,000,000, seems to be assured.

REMOVED FROM CITY HOSPITAL

DOCTOR SAYS CONDITION OF SAMUEL TRACE IS VERY SERIOUS.

Molder John Marker Who Was Shot Week Ago Continues to Show Improvement.

Samuel Trace who was knocked off the East Newark Pan Handle bridge last week, was removed from the City Hospital Sunday to his home in Myers Court in Bowers & Criss Bros' ambulance.

Dr. R. E. McCullough said Monday that the injured man's condition was such that he did not believe he could recover. While the back is not broken the concussion from the fall was such as to cause paralysis from the waist down.

The condition of John Marker, the molder, who was shot in the head last Tuesday night in West Newark, is very satisfactory, and the chances are now in favor of his recovery.

MRS. JAS. ROBERTS IS LAID TO REST

DEATH OCCURRED FRIDAY NIGHT
AT THE HOME OF BROTHER,
DR. C. C. JONES.

Wallace McInturn Hurt in Runaway—
Homer Clark Loses a Colt—News
Items from Granville.

Granville, O., Oct. 23.—Intense sorrow was felt in Granville on Saturday over the tidings of the death of Mrs. Clara Jones Roberts, wife of Rev. James Roberts, of Paris, Ill., which occurred on Friday night at the home of her brother, Dr. C. C. Jones in Sebring where she was visiting. It was only a short time ago that Mrs. Roberts was in Granville, visiting friends, and when the sad news was received of her death, heartache came to many here who had known Miss Clara Jones in her girlhood days, because none knew her but to love or admire her for her sunny nature, sweet disposition and pleasing ways she exemplified in every relation of life.

Miss Jennie Blinn of the Conservatory of Music, a dear friend of the deceased, was with her when the spark of life went out. The deceased was a graduate of Shepards college, while her husband was a graduate of Denison. She was a true and helpful wife, a consistent Christian and a member of the Baptist church. Her circle of friends equalled the number of her acquaintances, and she went to the grave sincerely mourned.

Besides her own immediate family the deceased is survived by two brothers, Dr. C. C. Jones of Sebring, and Prof. Gorman Jones of Williamsburg, Ky., Tom Jones of Philadelphia, Dr. Lisle Jones of Michigan, and Cade of New London.

The remains were brought to Granville on Monday and services were held in the parlors of the Conservatory of Music on Monday afternoon, conducted by Dr. C. J. Baldwin. The remains were taken to West Jefferson for interment.

Mrs. Bettie of Newark is the guest of her son, Walter Beattie and daughters, Blanche and Anne, all of whom are students of Denison.

The members of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity are wearing the purple, having pledged to their nuber "Doc" Porter of Chicago.

Mrs. Charles Lawson and infant daughter of Toledo, are visiting in town. Mrs. Lawson will be remembered as Miss Lillian Mingson, who graduated from Shepards a few years ago.

Miss Juanita Belford spent several days last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Sineckard in Johnstown.

Wallace McInturn of Columbus who was on a business trip north of the village on Saturday, and who was driving a fractious horse, was thrown from the buggy to the side of the road, and badly sprained his left arm. Only a short time previous to the accident he was cautioned by his friends to be careful with the animal because of its being easily frightened.

Mr. George W. Phillips, a ministerial student of Denison, preached near Cambridge, O., Sunday. Mr. Phillips recently rendered admirable service in a large church at Urbana, O.

Quite a little excitement was occasioned near the railway station on Saturday evening. Henry Davis, who lives south of the village, was driving along the road, when his horse frightened and started to run away. Henry, however, succeeded in stopping the animal before any damage was done.

Homer Clark, who resides near Central City, lost a valuable colt several days ago in a peculiar manner. The animal was in a pasture, and in some way snuggled its side and the intestines were punctured. It was necessary to kill the animal.

In all prosecutions under this section, the complainant shall not be required to prove a legal title to the land, or waters upon which the defendant has so unlawfully hunted or trespassed, but it shall be sufficient if he prove that he is in the lawful possession or control thereof. Whoever violates any provisions of this section shall be fined not less than $10 nor more than $15 for a first offense, and not less than $15 nor more than $20 for any subsequent offense, and in default of payment of fine and costs, shall be imprisoned as provided in section 10 of this act."

OUR MARY.

As a rose blossoms forth in the sunshine,
Or is blasted with the snow;
So our life either blooms or is blasted
As the seasons come and go.
We gaze on the rose and know full well
It can not live on forever.
Our life fades too, like the beautiful rose
When the soul from the body dost sever.

God watches over the flowers so rare,
With his omnipotent hand,
And gathers his jewels, one by one
To adorn the Heavenly land.
This time in our home the call has come,
God sent the death angel—meek and mild—
He asked for "Our Mary" who for sixty-five years
Has lived her life, as a little child.
For years ago when just a babe
Sad fate and sore affliction came—
And the little cherub, so like a flower,
Was blasted and scared by the fire's cruel flame.

Life to her has been one long dream,
The years have passed by as a day;
But the childish pleasures are o'er at last—
God came and has taken "Our Mary" away.
"Thy will not ours, be done."
Not so with Mary, for sinless and pure,
She has lived her life and the victory won.
Though we may build monuments grand and high,
Gain honor in this world of fame,
We must be like her—a child in heart,
If Heaven we wish to gain.
For did not Our Father in Heaven once say:
"Suffer little children to come unto Me."
Oh! lay down thy burden—wanderer come—
I will not forsake; I will care for thee.
October eleven, nineteen hundred and five,
God called "Our Mary" to rest.
But we bow our heads in submission.
For the Father knoweth best.
"Our Mary" so dear, will not be alone.
Sisters and brothers have gone before;
Father and mother, with out stretched arms
Stand waiting for her on the other shore.
Oh! how glad will be the meeting,
When we all reach there;
One family around the Heavenly throne.
With none of earth's sorrows to bear,
Our life like the rose fades away.
Mother Earth claims each form for her own;
But the spirit of those who live aright
Ascend to the Heavenly throne.
"The spirit and the bride say come,"
"I will not leave thee comfortless,
I will come again."
Can those who remain afford to miss
The offer of God's divine grace?
Can we afford to miss the chance
Of meeting our loved ones face to face?

We answer, No, Our Father.
We accept thy guiding hand;
Safe through the shoals thou wilt lead us.
To the bright and better land.

BLOODHOUNDS FROM NEWARK

CALLED TO TRACK BURGLAR AT JOHNSTOWN ON MONDAY MORNING.

Residence of W. E. Bates Was Entered
During the Night and About Thirty Dollars Stolen.

Johnstown, Oct. 23, 3 p. m.—Dr. Smith's bloodhounds have taken the trail and are going in the direction of the suspect's home.

Johnstown, O., Oct. 23—This village is in a furor of excitement today over the visit of burglars at the home of Mr. W. E. Bates, a well known restaurant man, last night. The discovery was made this morning when the family arose. The house was found ransacked from cellar to garret, and the thieves got but $30 for their trouble.

As soon as the discovery was made that the house had been burglarized, an investigation was made. It was learned that the burglars entered the house through a dining room window which was forced open with a jimmy. Mr. Bates' bedroom was entered and his trousers taken from a chair near his bed. The garment was taken to the parlor on the first floor where the contents of the pocket were removed and all money and valuables taken.

Another sum of money which Mrs. Bates had taken the precaution to conceal, was missed by the burglars. The village marshal was called and has taken charge of the case. A telephone message was sent to Newark and Dr. D. M. Smith with three bloodhounds, arrived during the afternoon.

Local talent is suspected as the parties were evidently very familiar with the house and its surroundings. Footprints were found in the lawn below the window where the entrance was gained.

MAN'S IDENTITY IS NOT YET KNOWN

Patient at Sanitarium Imagines He is Calling People by 'Phone—Rational in Some Ways.

The unknown man who fell in an epileptic fit Thursday evening in front of Maybold's shoe store and who has been cared for at the East Main street Sanitarium ever since, has as yet not been identified, although it is possible that his identity may be known within a few hours. Although the man is perfectly rational on many things he can tell nothing of himself. He is continually telephoning to imaginary persons. Sunday he called up his wife Ada and said: "I will be at Martin's Landing tonight." He used the "call 41-J." Dr. Ragsdale called up the chief operator at Bellare which is three miles north of Martin's Landing, and asked her if she had the call "41-J." She answered that that was J. L. Wilson's call, but that he was away at present. He also wrote a letter addressed to "My Dear Uncle," and signed "B. & M. Co., per C. E. S." The matter has been placed in Chief Sheridan's hands who will communicate with Bellare.

DEPOT SAFE BLOWN

Explosion at Hocking Valley Station
Near Marysville, Heard for a Mile—No Clew.

Delaware, O., Oct. 23—The Hocking valley depot was broken into Sunday morning and the safe blown open by the use of nitroglycerine, and papers valued at $200 and $15 in money were stolen. Entrance to the ticket office was gained by breaking a window and tearing a door from its hinges.

The explosion was a terrific one, the report being heard in the center of the city, one mile from the depot. The door was blown through a wooden partition into the next room.

No clue has been obtained. It is thought that professional robbers did the job.
